

YALE AND HARVARD PLAY THE GAME; NAVY 3, ARMY 0, END OF THIRD PERIOD

NIGHT
EDITION.

The World.

NIGHT
EDITION.

"Circulation Books Open to All."

"Circulation Books Open to All."

PRICE ONE CENT.

Copyright, 1911, by The Evening World, Inc. (The New York World.)

NEW YORK, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1911.

12 PAGES

PRICE ONE CENT.

MISS SHERMAN WEDDED TO LORD CAMOYS AT THE SICKBED OF HER FATHER

Roman Catholic Priest officiates, but Bride Denies She Renounces Faith.

INVITATIONS RECALLED.

Plans for Elaborate Ceremony Abandoned Because of Parent's Illness.

Miss Mildred Sherman, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Sherman, and heiress to many millions, was married this afternoon to Lord Camoys, a young nobleman of aristocratic lineage, but possessed of slender assets, at the home of her parents, No. 88 Fifth avenue. The ceremony was performed in Mr. Sherman's sickroom, in the presence only of the immediate members of the bride's family and the bridegroom's two brothers.

Before the ceremony the Sherman's denied the published report that the bride had renounced her Protestant Episcopal faith to become a Roman Catholic.

The following formal statement, in denial of the rumor, was made by Lawrence L. Gillespie, husband of a sister of the bride, at his home, No. 105 East Seventeenth street:

The Sherman family authorities Mr. Lawrence L. Gillespie to deny that Miss Sherman has given up her faith and entered the Roman Catholic Church, or is even contemplating such a step.

The marriage ceremony, Mr. Gillespie explained, was performed by a Roman Catholic priest in the Roman Catholic ritual for the reason that Lord Camoys is a Roman Catholic and has received a special dispensation to marry Miss Sherman.

If the marriage was first performed in the Protestant Episcopal faith, a second ceremony, performed in the Roman Catholic or any other ritual would not have any legal standing, the first being the real contract. Nor would an Episcopal first marriage be considered a marriage by the Roman Catholic Church.

The illness of Mr. Sherman, his strong desire to witness the wedding of his daughter and the fear that he may not live another week, were responsible for putting forward the marriage ceremony. Four hundred invitations had been sent out for a wedding reception to follow the ceremony next week, but these have been recalled, and the service was arranged to save Mr. Sherman as much fatigue as possible.

Resides Mr. and Mrs. Sherman there were present as witnesses only Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Gillespie, their son-in-law and daughter; Mrs. Norris Sellar, the bride's half-sister; Mrs. Howard Brown, Mrs. Sherman's sister-in-law, and Hugo and Edward Maurice Stoner, Lord Camoys's two brothers. Mrs. Gillespie was Miss Sellar.

(Continued on Second Page.)

Real Estate
Exceptional opportunities to buy a home on very reasonable terms will be found among the Real Estate advertisements in next Sunday's World. This is the time of the year to get genuine bargains. If your ambition is to own a home be sure and read next Sunday's World.

MORE HOUSES are bought and sold through The World than through any other source.

POPE PIUS PAYS SPECIAL HONORS TO MGR. FARLEY

Greets New Cardinal Cordially and Tells Him He Long Desired to Elevate Him.

ROME, Nov. 25.—Pope Pius gave a private audience today to Cardinal-Designate Farley of New York. The reception was attended with considerable ceremony, but was most cordial, and at its conclusion, in response to the Cardinal-Designate's expressions of gratitude, the Pontiff said that it had long been his desire to recognize the loyalty of the Catholic Church in America and the merit of the Archbishop of New York.

Accompanied by his secretary, Rev. J. V. Lewis, and Rev. William O. Murphy, the Archbishop drove in a private and closed carriage from the Hotel Bristol to the Vatican. The Swiss guard stationed at the Porta della Zecca presented arms as the Archbishop's carriage entered and, passing through the Court of the Pappagallo, stopped in the great Court of San Damiano before the entrance to the grand staircase, which leads to the Papal apartment.

POPE PIUS MEETS HIM WITH OUTSTRETCHED HANDS.
As the carriage halted the occupants were greeted by the cardinals. Stepping down the Cardinal-Designate was met by the Master of Ceremonies, who conducted him to Clementine Hall, where he was received by Mgr. Bissleti, the Major Domo of the Vatican, and himself a neo-Cardinal and by other dignitaries of the Pontifical Court. At the opposite end of the hall a detachment of Swiss guards was drawn up in salute.

Escorted by Mgr. Tani, who has charge of all the ceremonies in which the new Cardinals will participate, Cardinal-Designate Farley passed through the different rooms of the gorgeous Papal state apartment and reached the throne room which was once Pope Leo's bedchamber. From this room he was admitted to the library, where the audience took place, by an officer of the noble guard and a private chamberlain.

As the new Cardinal was being introduced the Pope advanced with outstretched hands and met the prelate at the door. After an affectionate exchange in which Cardinal-Designate Farley kissed the Pontiff's ring, His Holiness insisted that his visitor be seated at his left while he himself occupied a chair before his writing desk.

Rain has fallen steadily for the past few days, but today the skies cleared and the sun, entering the windows of the library, brightened the Papal workroom. The audience lasted for more than half an hour, after which the Pope and the Cardinal-Designate reappeared at the library door. As they parted His Holiness said that he hoped to see the Cardinal-Designate frequently during his stay in Rome.

POPE LONG DESIRED TO HONOR NEW YORK PRELATE.

The exchanges in the library were quite personal, but it was learned that after Cardinal-Designate Farley had thanked the Pope for himself and in reach a vital spot. The four wounds he inflicted are deep and deadly.

The last stab inflicted by John reached Pasquale's abdomen and Pasquale sank to the ground. John, with his knife in his hand and his fourteen wounds draining the life from him, staggered out of the park across a sidewalk and fell headlong into the gutter, where a policeman who had seen him leave the park found him.

"There is another man in the park," gasped John. "He is stabbed, too." Policemen were summoned from the City Hall and with the aid of lanterns the trail of blood from the gutter was followed until Pasquale was found, unconscious.

Friends of the men say they do not know what prompted the quarrel that broke a friendship of long standing and inspired each to the design of murder.

THE ARMY TO NAVY: "GREETINGS"

BOY HANGS SELF BECAUSE HE HAS NO PLAYMATES

Ostracized by White Boys Because of Negro Father, He Ends Loneliness.

Cedric Harrison, the lonely little boy of mystery at New Rochelle, was found hanging dead in the gardener's cellar on the estate of Major Leigh H. French today. The little chap, only fifteen years old, had taken his own life because he was tired of standing on the outside of the childish world of his section, ever looking in, but never permitted to join the frolics of the other children.

Fate played a peculiar prank upon the child. It left him with the complexion and physical marks of the white race in the hands of Major French's gardener, Harrison, a West Indian negro, who always said his wife, who died eight years ago, was a white woman and little Cedric was their child.

But the neighbors, always more or less given to gossip, had made a mystery of the child's past. The mystery was given over when the child grew up and was found to exhibit an affinity to association with the little negro girls of the town. The white boys ostracized him. So he was left as a child-factor in the town's life, who had no pleasant ties and no associations that might make one of his years happy.

The French estate is a large, handsome property. Its Italian gardens are noted, and many children play about the place and on other estates of the section. Cedric watched them and hungered for companionship.

Four days ago he disappeared. The police were asked to look for him. No trace was found until today, when some one went into the cellar of the gardener's house and found the little boy hanging from the rafters.

"It was all because he was a lonely little boy," said one of the townspeople, who told the story of the suicide.

BERLIN THIEF GOT $125,000 FROM POSTAL WAGON.

But Accident Threw Him Into Hands of Police and Most of Cash Was Recovered.
BERLIN, Nov. 25.—A bold robbery occurred in this city last night when $125,000 was stolen from a postal wagon used to collect the money shipments of the various Berlin sub-stations. The criminal got away, leaving no clues to his identity behind. Later, however, he was taken into custody accidentally and most of the money was recovered.

Among the booty found on the prisoner were 2,500 American dollars, presumably the contents of registered letters which had been mailed to America.

BANK FIGHTS VAN TUYL.

Sea Cliff Directors Declare Solvency and Will Ask Court Relief.
After a session which did not end until early this morning the Board of Directors of the Sea Cliff Bank decided to apply for a Supreme Court order compelling State Bank Superintendent Van Tuyl to explain why he closed the bank on Thursday. They say he exceeded his authority, as the bank is solvent.

At the bank Deputy Tompkins, who is in charge, says no claims would be paid by the bank or the examiners without ninety days, according to law. The Board of Directors of the bank have ten days in which to file objections.

BURGLAR FIGHTS HIS WAY OUT OF HACKENSACK JAIL

Frank Hart Wrests Revolver From Prison Chef and Dashes Into Street.

(Special to The Evening World.)
HACKENSACK, N. J., Nov. 25.—Frank Hart, a New York burglar, who said he lived in West Twenty-fourth street, and who was to have been placed on trial here on Monday on three charges of burglary and one charge of highway robbery, escaped from the Hackensack Jail at about 6:15 o'clock today when coffee was being served to the prisoners.

Hart and several others were taken from their cells and were supposed to have returned. Hart hid in a room adjoining the corridor. When the corridor door was opened he ran out and dropped through an opening in the floor to the kitchen.

Night Warden Campbell saw Hart and gave warning to Henry Bentel, speaker, the chef.

Bentel's partner drew his revolver and faced the desperate burglar. The cook declared he shot Hart in the stomach, but no one heard the shot. Hart grappled with the cook and finally wrested the revolver from him and dashed into the street. Under Sheriff Heath was aroused and soon the county constables and detectives were on the hunt. Bloodhounds have been put on the trail of Hart.

The burglar is five feet eight inches in height, weighs about 145 pounds and is thirty-five years old. He has dark brown hair, two days' growth of beard, a hardened countenance, and walks with short spry step. He wore a dark overcoat with a suit of overalls of white and blue stripes.

Valuables found in his room when he was arrested showed he had robbed several residences in this vicinity of several thousand dollars worth of silverware and jewelry.

Hart was arrested at Palisade a month ago following a trolley hold-up at Fort Lee. He had a revolver and a burglar's lamp on him. His partner, Harry Hall, is in jail here.

POLICEMAN IS INJURED TRYING TO STOP RUNAWAY.

Trampled Under Horse's Hoofs After Being Dragged a Block on Avenue A.
Policeman John Arthur of the East Sixty-seventh street station was seriously injured this afternoon when he attempted to stop two runaway horses belonging to the United States Express company. Arthur was guarding street cleaners at Avenue A and East Sixty-fourth street. The express team, driven by Henry Cordes of No. 127 East Thirtieth street, was standing at Sixtieth street, while the driver was making a delivery. A passing automobile frightened the horses and they ran north to Avenue A.

Arthur seized the bridle of one of the horses as the team passed Sixty-first street and was pulled back and a patch of clear blue sky showed. The field was in fairly good condition, although there were a few muddy spots. There had been just enough heat in the air to thaw out the frozen crust of the early morning. Just before game time the sun came out and the wind shifting west, blew straight down the field.

GERMAN AVIATOR KILLED.

Lieutenant in Army Service Fell at Berlin Grounds.
BERLIN, Nov. 25.—Lieut. Baron von Freytag-Loringhoven, a military aviator, fell at the military aviation ground in the Döberitz today and was killed. He was a son of the chief quartermaster of the general staff of the German army.

DALTON'S FIELD GOAL SCORED EARLY LEAD OVER ARMY ELEVEN

West Point Started Like Winners, but Superior Kicking Turned Tables in Middies' Favor—35,000 See the Battle.

Navy	3	0
Army	0	0

How the Army and Navy Teams Lined Up.

ARMY.	POSITION.	NAVY.
Gillespie	Left End	Hamilton
Devore	Left Tackle	Brown
Arnold	Left Guard	Wakeman
Siebert	Centre	Woems
Walmsley	Right Guard	Howe
Littlejohn	Right Tackle	Redmon
Hoge	Right End	McReavy
Hyatt	Quarterback	Gilchrist
Keyes	Fullback	Rodes
McDonald	Left Halfback	Dalton
Browne	Right Halfback	Nichols

(Special to The Evening World.)
FRANKLIN FIELD, Philadelphia, Nov. 25.—Army and Navy met here on Franklin Field today before 35,000 people. The great grandstand and the extra bleachers built for the occasion were filled long before game time. Even the standing room was all in demand. And it was an enthusiastic crowd in spite of the blustering west wind. The University of Pennsylvania students filled the student rosters' section on the east end before one o'clock. They spent the next hour amusing later arrivals with songs and cheers given impartially for Army, Navy and Pennsylvania.

The great crowd poured silently in under the entrance arches, a river shimmering in blue and gold and blue and gray.

Even when Secretaries Meyer and Stimson came in with their box parties, including high army and navy officials, as well as Cabinet members, there was no spontaneous outburst of applause. But at 1:30, when the khaki-clad army band marched swiftly in at the head of a long file of gray-coated cadets, the crowd around the gridiron began to warm up. The cadets formed and marched around the field and then filed quickly into the rosters' section of the south.

Now, while the Army band played, the Navy band, in blue and farding crimson, marched and followed by the Middies in blue-black overcoats. Each cadet and midshipman carried a megaphone along over his shoulder by a yellow ribbon.

It was a quarter to 2, overhead the black snow clouds began to roll back before the sharp northwest wind, and a patch of clear blue sky showed. The field was in fairly good condition, although there were a few muddy spots. There had been just enough heat in the air to thaw out the frozen crust of the early morning. Just before game time the sun came out and the wind shifting west, blew straight down the field.

Both teams are noisily welcomed on field.
At 1:45 o'clock the Navy team came out. The Navy rosters still flung into their places, waved a thousand blue and gold flags and broke into a deafening roar of welcome. Across the field the big black, yellow and gray banner of the Army fluttered in the west wind, while the Army rosters waited in silence.

CAMP SMASHES LINE FOR HEAVY GAINS IN GAME WITH HARVARD

Honors About Even in First Half of Annual Battle on the Gridiron Between Yale and Crimson Elevens.

45,000 SEE THE BATTLE IN CAMBRIDGE STADIUM.

Howe Misses Chances for Field Goals in First and Third Periods of Desperate Struggle.

Yale	0	0	0
Harvard	0	0	0

(Special to The Evening World.)
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 25.—Under sunny skies and with a biting, sharp wind very much in evidence, the thirty-second annual meeting between Harvard and Yale took place this afternoon in the presence of 45,000 people. The gridiron, although hardened by the heavy frost of early morning, resolved itself again into mud with the appearance of the sun. The long lane that leads to the battlefield was one stream of humanity from early morn either on the walk or being conveyed to the scene of battle.

Men prominent in every walk of life brushed elbows with their less fortunate brothers and exchanged a cheery word of greeting, for all are common blooded on this day of days—the hour which will determine the supremacy between the two teams, although the contest cannot of itself be claimed as a championship one.

Despite the official lineups given out there are rumblings that "pregame" changes on both teams. Quarterback Potter, Harvard's premier field general, is limping painfully and probably Haughton will not enter him at the start of the fray. Head Coach Field of Yale is still nervously scratching his head to decide whether to start Dave Reed or Steve Philbin's young brother.

EVERY SEAT IN STADIUM FILLED BEFORE GAME.
Every seat within the stadium is filled and standing room is at a premium. Everybody is wearing his or her favorite colors and the vendors are doing a land-office business.

At noon the Harvard team arrived from Lowell, where they stopped overnight. They went immediately to the locker building for a short blackboard talk with Coach Haughton. The blue army arrived shortly afterward and amid the plaudits of their admirers went to their dressing rooms.

Yale won the toss. Both stands of rosters warmed up by singing their songs and rehearsing their cheers. Gardner was at quarterback for Harvard in place of Potter.

Smith kicked off to Yale's 20-yard line. Spalding made twenty yards at Harvard's 40-yard line, the ball rolling to Harvard's 15-yard line. Avery recovered the ball. Spalding got two through centre. On another shift he failed to gain. Camp punted to Harvard's 20-yard line, Campbell running the ball back for four yards.

Felton returned the compliment to Camp at mid-field. Yale was smothered fifteen yards for holding. Wendell made one through centre. Felton punted on Philbin who fumbled but returned the ball on his thirty-seven yard line.

Camp punted to Campbell on Harvard's fifty-yard line, the ball being run back five yards. On a fake kick combination Campbell went around right end for ten yards. A quarterback run got Gardner a yard, Scully downing him.

Felton punted to Yale on her 20-yard line. Perry placed punt. Gardner recovered Camp's short punt. Camp bell got six through centre. Harvard won possible five yards for interference with the ball. Felton punned Yale's 40-yard line to Poter's 20-yard line. Harvard recovered. Potter takes Gardner's place.

Back. Crumpled. Bomblister intercepted Potter's pass on his own 20-yard line. Scully kicked out of bounds on the 40-yard line.

(Continued on Second Page.)